

Melissa Martinez is an associate social worker who helps individuals, families, and groups of people to cope with problems they're facing like economical problems.

Errol Sosa is a pediatric doctor who attends children even though they may not have enough money to pay for the resources to get the children's medication.